Jules Verne's Ship Comes In.

Previous to the opening of the Euroof submarine vessels had demonstrated the practicability of producing boats capable of travelling long distances for many moons. under their own power, and in our had been successfully carried out. It has also been reported that vessels of this class built in Canada from Amerivoyed by allied warships to Gibraltar and the Dardanelles. As this voyage was a military exploit the facts concorning it are not matters of public knowledge, but the report is worth recalling now, when the German Deutschland has completed her trip and rests safely in American waters.

Unlike the U-35, which arrived at Carthagena, Spain, on June 22, bearthe Kaiser, the Deutschland claims the status of a merchantman. She is not a warship; her crew is not drawn from the German navy; she is unarmed, and she has brought here passengers mails and a general cargo. The fact that she is not a naval vessel will save ber from internment. She may remain in port as long as her commander wishes and depart at her convenience, after fulfilling the obligations imposed on merchant vessels by our shipping and customs laws.

It is to be expected that the representatives of the Allies will assail her status and endeavor to have her ful character is not impaired by the Both estimates are in excess of the circumstance that she is capable of submerging. THE ISLAND.

When You Are Building a Seaside Summer Home, Says an Architect Who Is an Artist, You Must Choose Between "Improvement" and "Acceptance" of the Creator's Plan. Donaldson was looking for a country place, or more exactly, a site which would give his landscape architect an exceptional chance to do wonders. When the two had fully explored the little island standing venturesomely knee deep in the Atlantic, Donaldson said a few words deprecating their

> "It's nothing but a clump of sand dunes," he concluded, "and as for making anything grow here, that's of course out of the question.

"You can change it completely by planting wind breaks of white spruce said the architect promptly and white pine will grow among the beach grass. Blue spruce, Japanese red, Scotch and pitch pine will do proper protection is possible. The lawn will be expensive; soil for that and for a garden will have to be brought here every foot of it." "And what will it look like when you "Do you know the pirate Kidd, that good man gone wrong. put ashore here for supplies and gav the wife of the proprietor a present of a holt of calico? People dug holes to years afterward looking for Kidds treasure. I used to dream of it as a youngster. When I read 'Treasure Jim Hawkins there was no trouble to pick a counterpart for everything in the book except Ben Gunn's cave. To my regret I found no cave, only a cavein when I tried to construct one in this sand."

"Could you get the whole island asked the architect.

"Every bit; 600-odd acres and riparian rights for a lump sum, and large either. I rather wanted it fo its associations. It has never been sold before since the British Crown gave patent to the first Richard Stan ough, and Stanborough handed the Indians sixteen strings of wampum an a cheap violin. As a poet born about that time observed: charms to soothe the savage breast The sachem of the tribe, who insisted .t the musical instrument was he
